Canada's Stake In Japan

For my recent tour of Japan and the chance to write the following dispatches I have to thank the Japanese Government whose hospitality knew no limit; Prime Minister Kishi who took time to answer all my questions in detail and candor; Mr. Toru Hagiwara, Japanese ambassador to Canada, who invited me to his country; Mr. M. Tanabe, Japanese consul-general in Vancouver who arranged my travels exactly as I desired; Mr. S. Kondo, director of the Public Information Bureau of the Foreign Ministry and his colleague, Mr. Tiro Inagawa, who opened all official doors to me; and especially Mr. Nooshi Shimanouchi, a distinguished official of the Foreign Ministry, who volunteered to be my guide and interpreter and ended as my friend.—B.H.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

For historic, racial and cultural reasons Canada's eyes have always turned, and its military forces have always moved, eastward across the Atlantic to Europe. But today, when Europe is prosperous and stabilized while Asia is gripped by hunger and revolution, lies primarily westward, across the Pacific.

The only physical shield against that danger is a vast arc of power built by the United States athwart the Russo-Chinese Communist empire. And the keystone of that arc is the astounding, little-known nation of Japan.

Actually, as a Canadian traveller soon realizes, Japan is less a nation than an explosion, or rather a sequence of explosions repeatedly projecting their energies into the life-stream of civilization.

At the moment we are witnessing — but in Canada are ignoring — the latest of the life-stream of civilization.

Canadian Conception All Wrong

Sufficient to say at the beginning that Japan is not the nation, the economy, the political system or the society that most Canadians imagine but something else entirely.

Whatever it may be as a state and a people, which way is Japan going — to the free world or to the Communist empire? Second only to the future of the Chinese revolution, that is the largest question in Asia, where most of humanity lives.

It is too early to answer the question for it will not be answered by Japan alone but by the free world, including Canada.

Japan's choice has been firmly made, in favor of freedom, and it has achieved within 14 years a society as free as any in the West. But its choice can be maintained only if Japan is given the chance to live and prosper as a free nation.

If it is not given that chance, if the free world, including Canada, refuses to buy the product, abundantly while

U.S. Makes No Secret of Strategy

It is no secret to Russia and China — indeed, the United States wants them to understand the facts beyond any possible question — that American power is deployed in an unbroken arc from the Aleutian Islands to Korea, Japan, Okinawa, Formosa, the Philippines, Australia and New Zealand.

It is so deployed with the full consent and by the ardent wish of the peoples on these islands.

Throughout the arc, with its

2ND INCIDENT

Reds Try To Grab U.S. Code

NEW DELHI (UPI) — The U.S. Embassy charged tonight that Chinese Communists dragged U.S. Marine Sgt. Robert Armstrong from a taxi cab on a public street in Bombay and bound him by the neck and arms to a pillar in the garage of their consulate Friday.

The Embassy lodged a protest with the Indian government today charging it was a "high-handed violation of the personal rights of a United States citizen in a friendly country."

Even as the embassy released its report on Armstrong, reliable sources reported that two Chinese thugs attempted to seize coded American diplomatic telegrams in Bombay this morning.

The messenger carrying them escaped but said he could identify his assailants.

Surrounded

The Embassy statement on the Armstrong incident said at least six Chinese surrounded the Marine in his taxi cab in front of the Chinese communist consulate and dragged him into the compound.

The Embassy statement said the Chinese pulled Armstrong, pushed him and "were striking him in the ribs with their fists."

It said Armstrong remained bound to a pillar in the garage for some time while the Chinese questioned him.

One Chinese stood by holding a heavy club and was quoted as telling Armstrong that if he yelled "you will get this."

USAF SENTRY ROUGHED UP

CLARK AIR FORCE BASE, Philippines (UPI) — Armed Filipinos infiltrated a restricted area this sprawling headquarters of the 13th U.S. Air Force today and trussed up and interrogated an American Air Force sentry.

It was the latest in the series of incidents at the American air base near Manila which stirred an angry protest earlier this week by Rep. Phil Wever (R-Neb.) in Washington.

READ PRO AND CON ON FLUORIDATION

Champions for and against fluoridation of Greater Victoria's water supply have written articles for the Times summarizing their respective views. These articles, appearing on Page 13 today, should be read by every voter who will be called upon to cast a ballot on the question next month.

These East-West football frays don't allow for no peaceful co-existence.

Bet Hamilton thinks Winnipeg ought to have a representative at the Geneva disarmament conference.

Pity we couldn't put somethin' in th' water to prevent holes in heads.

WIRE BRIEFS

Storm Blocks Seaway

MONTREAL (CP) — Blowin' snow and below-freezing temperatures today disrupted all shipping movements in the St. Lawrence River and Seaway between Kingston and Montreal.

No Survivors

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Air and sea rescue teams reached the site of an overturned ship in the Gulf of Mexico today and reported no sign of survivors.

The ammunition motor ship National Pride with a crew of 10 or 11 men has been overdue since Thursday night.

50 Below in Japan!

ASAHIKAWA, Hokkaido (CP) — The temperature in this town in northern Hokkaido, northernmost of the Japanese islands, dropped to 50 degrees below zero today. The drop was attributed to a cold front from Siberia.

A search of the lunchroom on the eighth floor of the building disclosed arsenic in a two-pound tin of drip-grind coffee and more arsenic in a jar of instant coffee.

"This was no accident," Kramer said. "It was deliberate."

Critical Point for NATO

THE COMMANDER OF NATO operations in central Europe, a French air force general, takes a poor view of NATO'S military strength. There is no defence in depth, he says, "the Belgian and Dutch forces are unusable at the moment, and the French forces are in Algeria."

General de Gaulle himself recently told an audience of French officers that France intended to fight only its own wars and take a very calculating look before being drawn into anyone else's.

The military basis of NATO, then, the core of its multi-member body, appears to be deteriorating.

The political basis is no more promising. The smaller members of NATO are becoming disgruntled over the trend that current diplomacy is following. "International affairs" are being decided by top-level private meetings among the Big Four, by personal correspondence sent back and forth among Mr. Macmillan, Chancellor Adenauer, President Eisenhower and Mr. Khrushchev. Moods among some of the lesser member states are said to range from discontent to revolt.

This situation has not been helped by the coolness between Britain and France and President de Gaulle's increasing urge to emphasize France's independence—as in nuclear armaments—for purposes of prestige.

The concern of the second-power NATO members was particularly sharpened by news that the four top Western leaders planned to hold a strategy meeting in Paris in December without any formal reference to the NATO Ministerial Council which was to meet in the same city only four days earlier.

Even Canada took part in the protests, with the result that the NATO states will be given an opportunity for preliminary discussion and a later report on the proceedings of the meeting.

But the incident was indicative of the NATO atmosphere. And there can be little doubt that for some time to come the important developments in the international field will continue to be governed by "back-room" talks among the major powers rather than by United Nations or NATO discussions.

What has happened to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization?

It was conceived and given reality as a defensive instrument when the West was threatened with what it believed to be the imminent danger of a Soviet military thrust. It called for mutual assistance to any member who was attacked, and there can be little doubt that this united front against aggression has had much to do with Russia's present accent on peaceful co-operation.

Can NATO not survive the decrease in the military threat? Can it not be a constructive alliance instead of a merely temporary reaction to panic?

These are vital questions for NATO today. The organization was not conceived as entirely a military device, important as that aspect was at the time. Far-seeing men—and Canada's Lester Pearson is one of them—realized that the defensive alliance must be made more cohesive by political co-operation and economic bonds: a closely-knit, freely-trading, transatlantic community must ultimately be achieved if, NATO is to have a truly useful future or, indeed, if it is to long endure.

These ancillary considerations have not been made effective. The NATO nations are still united—although internal quarrels such as that between Britain and Iceland threaten this unity from time to time—but they are beginning to question the stability of the Treaty.

Signed in 1949, it was intended to run for 20 years. Now, at the half-way mark, there seems to be a danger that it will not survive the full term. Such a failure would be a major disaster to the West and to democracy, a major victory for Communism.

If "peaceful co-existence" has changed the nature of the global ideological struggle, then the NATO alliance should alter to meet the new challenge. Strength still lies in unity.

Thou Shalt Not Dissent . . .

MR. KHRUSHCHEV'S RECENT boast that there are no persons in Russia being made to stand trial for political crimes marks a great step forward in improving Soviet living conditions. At the same time his insistence on the greatness of this achievement emphasizes the backwardness of the previous situation.

That situation could return. The security police are in no way disbanded. Indeed, Mr. Khrushchev jokes that some of them are complaining that they have too little to do.

One of the chores which they still carry out is to land with the full force of Soviet law on Jehovah's Witnesses, Pentecostals and other religious sects which emphasize their allegiance to God at the expense of the state.

It is surprising that so small a group in Russia should command so much attention from the state, which surely they cannot threaten. Yet there have been a number of trials, some publicized in the U.S.S.R., of members of these sects, with sentences running up to three, five, six years in labor camps.

The charges were not based on religious grounds, rather they were political—subversive activity. This at once gives the lie to Mr. Khrushchev's claim that political trials are not taking place, and raises the question as to what he fears from such quarters.

The incidents are significant, too, in that they demonstrate the continuing power of the security police to remove from circulation anyone who questions the omnipotence of the state. It would require a change in the accent on Soviet policy to restore overnight the recently familiar terrors of full police supervision.

IMMATURE AMERICAN PANTOMIME

Wrestling: Protection Needed for a Developing Art Form

THE Board of Broadcast Governors, after anxious hours of uncertainty, is apparently moving towards the view that wrestling is a legitimate form of television entertainment. It is difficult to understand how this problem arose in the first place. For one of the Governors hails from Winnipeg where many leading citizens have devoted many hours of research to this subject.

This is obviously no field for a singularly unathletic layman. My only excuse WESTERN for venturing an opinion is that I was a neighbor for some years of a gentleman whose authority in these matters is accepted without question from East Drive all the way to the Wildwood shopping centre.

I would not presume to quote him or to attribute to him views which would probably suffer total loss in translation from the Scottish. All I can offer is the impression that filtered through to me from his fireside dissertations.

My view, thus limited, is that the "contest" controversy is irrelevant and that televised wrestling cannot properly be compared with rigged quiz programs.

It seems to me that the art of Lord Athol Layton and Gorgeous George is an immature American form of pantomime. This is in no sense disparagement for, by definition, all arts are immature in their early periods. It probably requires great skill to bounce a 300-pound opponent like a yo-yo without doing irreparable damage to the sub-flooring.

The point is that televised wrestling presents the essential elements of pantomime, including the secret conspiracy between participants and audience. The damsel to be rescued is the hobby boxer in the front row or (a delightful innovation) the elderly vestry man smoking furiously on the carpet in front of his television set.

Some care is taken to identify the ogre, indeed, the only point of confusion here (betraying perhaps the American origins of the art) is that the ogre occasionally merges with the referee.

There are several approved means of dealing with the situation; one is to bash the official's head against a ring post; another is to throw him to the wolves, that is to say, the spectators.

As for our Jack, fresh from his beanstalk, any child can recognize him and so can many adults.

It is necessary to brace oneself at this point for Jack, despite his air of confidence, is about to suffer every foul and excruciating torture that the mind of the promoters has been able to devise.

What sustains the viewer is the shared knowledge that virtue is going to triumph (and if it doesn't happen this week, come back next with a sharpended appetite for blood and gore).

It would obviously be silly for the Governors to seek escape from their predicament by ruling that this spectacle is not a contest. Since the essence of pantomime is make-believe, it has to be billed as a contest. If there is any such cowardly evasion, the Governors should be thrown into the ring.

What they must do is to devise means of protecting a developing art form. It is very likely that this pantomime wrestling will in time become (like Cinderella and the Wicked Sisters in England) a vehicle for social and political criticism.

Gruesome Gargantua, with his foot planted firmly in the face of the referee, will tickle the audience with satirical anecdotes about Mr. George Hees.

It must be hoped that the Governors will not injure this prospect by any sudden decision imposed by fancied terminological necessity.

Opinions of Our Readers on the Value of Fluoridation in Preventing Tooth Decay

For the Children

I for one am going to vote for fluoridation!

It is tragic that those who should receive the benefit which fluoridation confers, our children, the citizens of tomorrow and our nation's greatest resource, have no choice but to accept the destiny which the older generations by omission or omission determine. To let them down, rather

Are we, the adults who stand to gain nothing from this measure personally, going to turn it down through sheer selfishness or groundless fear? Cannot we think in other terms than our own preferences for this one golden opportunity to assist the children?

A. L. ADAMSON.

Pity

Isn't it a pity someone doesn't conceive the idea of spending our money to purify our drinking water rather than to further contaminate it!

POTENTIAL VICTIM.

Ask Your Doctor

It is an inexplicable mystery to me why such a large number amongst us are influenced by an ill-informed and vociferous minority to the point where we hesitate to accept the clearly proven benefits of fluoridation.

To quote H. E. Hilleboe, commissioner of health, State of New York:

"The progressive accumulation of dental disease . . . is a national calamity. Water fluoridation is an extension of standardized water treatment procedures designed to improve the health of consumers."

And to quote A. L. Russell, chief epidemiologist:

Never, Never!

The little dear who lost their teeth by improper diet would never, never, well, hardly ever, get any fluorine from tap-water. If they simply must have the stuff they will be sure to get enough only if it is put in soft drinks, candy and chewing gum.

And how about some compulsory medication for adults by doping the water further with aspirin, uranium, tranquilizers, energizers, liver pills and wood alcohol (so tap water can be used for backrubs) but not whisky lest the government bottle it for sale in liquor stores? Next the high-pressure groups will be all out to put deodorants, vaporized serums, etc., in the air we breathe.

An overdose of chlorine can be detected very easily. Fluorine, admittedly a poison, is odorless and tasteless. Just let your imagination dwell on what a saboteur hoodlum, drunk or just plain fool can do with that set-up. Where's the money coming from for this pro-fluoridation campaign?

AQUA PURA.

In Company of Quacks

Dr. W. W. Bauer of Chicago, director of health education for the American Medical Association, recently pointed out that the AMA has stated that water fluoridation is safe and practical, only after an investigation of extraordinary care and thoroughness. Criticizing what he described as the "crackpot opposition," he said:

"We distinguish between scientists who hold a minority opinion and rabble rousers who have opposed not only fluoridation but practically every other medical advance, particularly in the field of public health . . . These are the same people also who have tried to obstruct the progress of medical organization. They adhere to or promote false cancer cures and are regularly to be found in the company of quacks, faddists and the unscientific groups opposing medical progress."

As I have no desire to be counted among the rabble, I am going to vote for fluoridation.

FATHER OF FOUR

To get the truth of the matter and learn of the appalling state of children's teeth in Victoria ask any good dentist, the department of health, Dr. Mahaffy or any school nurse.

Many conscientious parents have been providing this protection for their children's teeth for years. Unfortunately, in spite of dental checks at the schools and cards sent home to parents showing what needs to be done, many children receive very little care and some none. Children can lose teeth through decay as early as three years of age, and apparently this is not uncommon here. Their permanent set is not complete till 12 years of age. How do they chew their food?

We are not going to be "poisoned." Our water will not be "stinky." Our teeth will not go blotchy.

All that will be done here is bring the content in our water up to normal. It has proved successful in cutting down tooth decay in other parts of Canada. The cost is not great, about $1 per family per year. This could soon be paid by cutting down the amount of soft drinks and candy consumed by our children. (See mummy, you are mean!)

Fluoridation is safe, inexpensive and seems the only way of reaching every child and giving him the best we can. I hope they get it.

DR. LESLIE HOWARD,
16 Fadden Ave.

Look at the Goldfish

Remove that fluoridation, leave our water crystal pure.

Since fluorine damages our health, of this we all are sure.

The hypocrites and profiteers are with us still today.

To influence the weaker folk who let them have their way.

So let our present counselors just do as we suggest.

Since the folk who pay the taxes are the one's who should know best. Since it killed the pretty gold fish, what would it do to us?

E. M. JONES,
1166 View Street.

Better to Brush

I am reading, with a little concern, the discussions in the press regarding fluoridation. It involves a very important health problem and it is for the medical profession to balance the benefits as well as the detriments which may arise.

To me, believing as I do, that there are no two people alike and consequently there are no two people requiring the same amount of missing elements in their system, nor even the same treatment when ill, fluoridation may be very detrimental to the health of those who through hereditary or adaptation have acquired a normally balanced constitution not requiring additional chemicals.

And these may suffer from the excess more than those who may suffer through deficiencies. It is very simple to prescribe any sort of needed mineral or vitamin in capsule form. The den-talists will be the first to say that brushing the teeth after each meal—not a lick and a promise—but really brushing. The exercise and the elimination of bacterial ferments will do more to conserve the teeth than fluoridation. If the dental profession believe that fluoridation will stop tooth decay, a well-balanced diet with the addition of this mineral given to those who require it, seems a much simpler procedure.

DR. PAULINE
BEREGOFF-GILLOW,
3285 Beach Drive.

Cheap, Simple, Painless

Next to the common cold, tooth decay is probably the most universal disease suffered by mankind. Even for those families which practice good dental hygiene and have funds for adequate dental care, we are confronted with an expensive and continuing repair and treatment expense to deal with cavities and decay.

Great numbers of our citizens cannot afford the cost of adequate dental care, and the simple fact is that there are not now, or in the foreseeable future, nearly enough dentists to take care of the dental needs of this community.

Considering this, it seems inconceivable to me that anyone would be opposed to accepting the cheap, simple

No Good to Me

I was talking to a chiropractor this week, and I asked him why he was opposed to fluoridation, and he gave me this peculiar answer:

1. I am against it because all the doctors and dentists are for it.

2. Because it won't do me any good. I'm wearing upper and lower plates.

3. It's only good for youngsters.

4. It costs too much.

I wonder how many of the people of Victoria will vote against it for these selfish reasons?

"WONDERING."

Horrid

I wonder how much more poison they will be giving us in our drinking water? The water before they doped it was worth drinking. Now it's horrid.

I only drink fruit juices and vegetable juice now and I am sure if they put in fluoridation a good many of us will not touch it.

They tell you to vote and even if you do vote against it and the people say No, they will go right ahead and put it in anyway. What is the use of voting?

TIMES ITEM... R.C.N. FINDS NEW CLUES IN ORIGIN OF WEST COAST WRECK...

Down the Hatch

VICTORIA is engrossed in two great debates at the moment: the municipal elections and the fluoridation referendum. The one has a number of manufactured issues with comic overtones and the other is no issue at all, with serious implications.

It is a great misfortune that those who have made public utterances on the subject of fluorinating the water supply have failed to state the principle involved. It is not a question of combatting the effects of candy and soft drinks on children's teeth, nor is it one of poison, communism or some other evil. It is a simple question of whether or not any majority has any business at all telling a minority what is good for the individual.

To the archaic mind of this column the mere fact that a vote is being held on the matter at all is monstrous. Even if our (currently) addeplated legislature has seen fit to give the power to hold referendums on the subject to municipalities, there is nothing to make them do it. Unfortunately, the various municipal councils have unthinkingly taken up the buck which has been passed to them, without considering the principles involved.

For fluoridation of the water supply is not a public health measure, like chlorination. It is mass medication for the benefit of a few non-voters, and mass medication is absolutely wrong in principle. Nobody in his right mind would consider seriously a proposal to add Epsom salts to the water for the benefit of the habitually constipated. Yet that is the identical idea which we are asked to vote about next month.

The whole silly business is just another example of the legislative herd being stampeded by a few experts. The question should never have arisen at all in the first place.

God knows this column is no faddist. Far from it. It has, indeed, only the most academic interest in the question, for water never passes its lips save in the direst emergencies. But occasions do arise when its torpid sense of right and wrong gets aroused, and this is one of them. It has, if it chooses to exercise it, the simple right to straight water, and so have we all. Whatever you or I may feel is good for our neighbour, we have no right whatever to force our views upon him.

Dental hygiene, it seems to me, is a purely personal matter. Each one of us is entitled to let his teeth rot if he chooses; we may also take measures to prevent such an unhappy state of affairs. But it is nobody's business but our own. Private business. If this unsound idea of putting personal liberties (and there are few enough of them left to us as it is) up on the "democratic" block gains any further currency, then we can expect to see within a few years universal laxatives, insulin, aspirin, Coca-Cola . . . shall I continue?

I never heard of such damned nonsense in all my life; and now that this ridiculous vote has been forced upon me, I shall be down there voting the most resounding NO I ever voted.

A pox on experts, and legislators who listen to them!

WEEKEND WEATHER PICTURE ACROSS CANADA

SYNOPSIS—A weak weather system brought showers to the southern B.C. coast this morning and will move across the southern interior during the day. Only a few snow flurries over the mountains are expected to accompany the storm as it crosses the interior. Another more active disturbance will bring rain and strong winds to the northern coast this afternoon and the rain will spread over the south coast tonight. Scattered showers of mixed rain and snow are expected in the interior late tonight and Sunday.

Labor Hails Mayor For Shipyard Blitz

Victoria Labor Council has showered praise on Mayor Percy Scurrah for his efforts in leading a local committee to Ottawa for fight for more federal ship contracts.

A letter to the mayor, signed by A. W. Toone, secretary-treasurer of the VLC, noted that "a great deal of time, effort and considerable expense has been put forward by members of the Citizens' Committee over the past several months in attempting to gain contracts for the shipyards, and jobs for workers in this area."

The letter said this was particularly true of the committee members who went to Ottawa twice for that purpose. "The Victoria Labor Council would like to take this opportunity to express appreciation for your interest and efforts in this matter, and we trust that continued effort may result favorably."

Alberta Town Hit by Polio

EDMONTON (CP)—A polio epidemic at Lacret, a tiny community in Northern Alberta, has struck 10 and caused three deaths, it was reported Friday.

Dr. E. S. Orford Smith, Alberta director of local health services, said the epidemic would have been smaller if Lacret residents had responded to a polio vaccine program.

He said persons in the farming community 405 miles north of Edmonton did not respond to the program until the epidemic broke out.

Yule Buying Spree Hikes Retail Sales

By JACK LEFLER

NEW YORK — The Christmas buying spree started in the United States this week amid predictions that it will be the biggest ever.

The National Retail Merchants Association estimated Yule sales will exceed 1958 by six per cent.

Inventories, including major appliances which require steel, are in good shape.

Demand is heavy for luxury items such as furs, jewelry, fine apparel and higher-priced toys.

Retail sales this week rose three to seven per cent compared with a year ago.

The U.S. cost of living hit a peak in October.

The labor department's consumer index climbed two-tenths of one per cent to 123.5 per cent of the 1947-49 period. This was the sixth record in seven months.

Food costs went down three-tenths of one per cent but all other major groups of goods and services advanced.

PAY INCREASE

The increase means a pay raise for about 1,250,000 workers whose contracts provide for cost-of-living adjustments.

The steel industry worked its production up to an estimated 8.1 per cent of capacity in the third week since a court injunction sent striking steel workers back to the mills.

Finished steel was being turned out faster than had been expected but adequate supplies won't be in the hands of users for several weeks.

Because of steel shortage and the U.S. Thanksgiving Day holiday, the week's auto production dipped to its lowest point of the 1960 model run. November production is estimated at 255,000 cars and 46,000 trucks, compared with 507,530 cars and 93,000 trucks in October.

Chrysler Corp. said it will shut down the last of its assembly plants for one week starting Wednesday because it has run out of steel. General Motors, closed for a month, plans to resume passenger cars assembly Dec. 7.

Work Stoppage To Protest Yard Layoffs

VANCOUVER (CP) — Thirty workers at Burrard Dry Dock Company Friday staged a work stoppage to protest the dismissal of 53 others.

The men said the company dismissed men with as much as 20 years seniority while keeping immigrants with less seniority.

The men were laid off after the completion of the ferry Tsawwassen which will run between Sidney and the mainland.

Sam Jenkins, president of the Marine Workers and Boilermakers Industrial Union (CLC), said the company had shown "flagrant discrimination" against the long-time employees. He said the company view is that workers from Britain have greater ability.

Threat Fails To Shake Firm Chiefs

TORONTO (CP) — Anonymous threats of violence failed to shake the management of Arcan Corporation Ltd. and management's slate of directors was elected by a shareholders' meeting Friday.

Arcan President Robert A. Armstrong told the meeting his secretary received a telephoned threat Thursday that he and vice-president D. Phillip Owen would be shot if they turned up at the meeting.

The company, based in Hamilton, makes a variety of industrial items through Arcan Eastern Ltd., sells non-food items to the Independent Grocers Alliance through a subsidiary, owns a charcoal business and controls Bon Ami Ltd.

Tungsten Project

TORONTO (CP) — Canada Tungsten Mining Co. Ltd., a newly-formed company, plans to develop a tungsten deposit in the Mackenzie Mountains regions of the Northwest Territories.

The deposit, described by its backers as the "highest-grade" tungsten deposit in North America, has been under examination since 1958 by a group called the Mackenzie Syndicate.

Ankle-deep snow and low temperature didn't stop Bruce Mackenzie from getting 520 acres of flax from his farm in Manitoba. He hired five self-propelled combines for the 25 hours necessary to harvest more than 5,000 bushels. Average yield is estimated at 10 bushels an acre. (CP Photo.)

WEEK ON MARKETS

Tight Money, Little News Blamed for Sluggish Trend

By GREG MACDONALD

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian stock markets this week, with the exception of a few industrials, went nowhere as investors continued to watch and wait.

While the volume during the five sessions was heavier than last week the trading pace still was moving at a slower than usual rate.

The average volume for the week was slightly more than 2,000,000 and brokers attribute a variety of reasons for lack of interest. One of them is the U.S. presidential election in the third week since a court injunction sent striking steel workers back to the mills.

Finished steel was being turned out faster than had been expected but adequate supplies won't be in the hands of users for several weeks.

Because of steel shortage and the U.S. Thanksgiving Day holiday, the week's auto production dipped to its lowest point of the 1960 model run. November production is estimated at 255,000 cars and 46,000 trucks, compared with 507,530 cars and 93,000 trucks in October.

The other reasons are still the same old regulars—tight money and little in the way of business news.

BRIGHT SPOTS

But there were a few bright spots on the market this week, especially in the industrial section.

Steel Union Stockpile

Plan Refused

WASHINGTON (AP) — The

commerce department Friday rejected a suggestion by the Steelworkers Union that steel be stockpiled for defence use if the industry strike is resumed after a Taft-Hartley labor law injunction expires Jan. 26.

The action came as representatives of the industry and union agreed to resume peace talks in the long dispute here next Tuesday.

Philip A. Ray, acting secretary of commerce, indirectly accused the union of trying to shift to the government the responsibility for any defence lags that might result if the walkout is resumed.

In a letter to Arthur J. Goldberg, the union's general counsel, Ray said stockpiling would not guarantee steel for defence requirements.

"Only continued production of steel in all its phases can supply the real needs of defence," Ray said.

The public interest requires the parties to the negotiation to settle their differences at the collective bargaining table, and this responsibility cannot be shifted," Ray declared.

The negotiations will meet Tuesday with director Joseph Finnegan of the federal mediation and conciliation service, who arranged the new meetings.

The steelworkers are back at their jobs under terms of a 116-day walkout.

Present and the two-hour meeting was conducted without incident.

Arcan Corporation shares soared early this year on the Toronto Stock Exchange from $1.50 to a little over $8. They slipped back and, on July 20, fell from $4.95 to $2.30. They were then suspended from trading.

A proxy fight has been going on between company management and New York interests since the stock price plunged.

The company, based in Hamilton, makes a variety of industrial items through Arcan Eastern Ltd., sells non-food items to the Independent Grocers Alliance through a subsidiary, owns a charcoal business and controls Bon Ami Ltd.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Bank Solves That Long Lunch Hour

By HAL MALONE

Times Business Editor

It might be better if this didn't get around but there's a place in downtown Victoria where you get soup, roast beef sliced a quarter-inch thick, potatoes, green beans, dish of fruit, bread and beverage for free.

Better still, if you manage to clean your plate, you can go back for as many helpings as your frame can contain. Again there is no tariff.

"We had the same trouble when I was with the bank at Winnipeg," said Dillabough.

"But we had an even greater problem. By allowing employees to leave for lunch en masse we were forced to severely restrict our service to customers between noon and 1 p.m."

"To overcome this we decided to set up a cafeteria in the bank's steadiest customers), doesn't recall when the original idea was born but he's all in favor of it.

"Our eastern branches have been doing it for some time. I believe the idea originated in England many years ago. I think it stemmed from the fact there were insufficient eating places near the banks. Employees just couldn't eat and get back to work in the allotted time.

EVEN JAIL FIRST CLASS AROUND GREY CUP TIME

TORONTO (CP)—Things can get kind of rough around Grey Cup time.

To make sure exuberant fans don't run beyond the bounds of good sense, police have set up a jail in the downtown Royal York Hotel.

They have taken over a suite for the temporary lockup and assigned extra officers to look after it.

Police emphasized they aren't around to cramp anybody's style. They seek to protect rather than prosecute.

Coast Campaign For Next Classic

TORONTO (CP) — Vancouver is definitely out to get the 1960 Grey Cup game.

Harry Spring, president of British Columbia Lions, and Don McKenzie, chairman of Vancouver's 1958 Grey Cup committee, told a meeting of the Canadian Football League Friday that the West Coast is anxious to stage the East-West final again.

The decision will be made at the CFL's annual meeting early in February in Vancouver.

The final was played in Vancouver last year and in 1955, the first time it has been held in the West.

Vancouver intends to campaign actively to get the game. On each table at the Grey Cup dinner Friday night was a printed card saying Premier Bennett "invites you to attend the Grey Cup festival in British Columbia in 1960." A colored brochure promoting B.C. also was distributed among the guests.

Winnipeg ball, own 25: Ploen's short screen pass to Lewis was low. Shepard's quick kick rolled to the Hamilton 17, where Wood picked the ball up and ran it back to the Hamilton 26 as the quarter ended.

Bad Year for Indians ---But Far From Starving

POR ALBERNI — West Coast Indians who have had a bad year fishing are in need, but are far from starving, West Coast Indian agencies supervisor N. W. Garrard said today.

There are about 200 Indian families within agency jurisdiction, extending from Port Renfrew to Kyuquot.

"Ninety-nine per cent of these people are on relief, but they get enough to hold them over," Mr. Garrard said.

"Those on relief, provided by the federal government, receive an average of $50 a month for a family of four. Reports that the Indians were starving, he said, are exaggerated."

Because of poor fishing the past season, "things are a little tougher than ordinary."

Mr. Garrard said clothes being collected in Victoria would always come in useful for the Indians, but there was no real need in this direction either.

GOOD RESPONSE

Clothes to 1½ tons of donated clothing have been collected here since reports of the Indians' plight were received. No further clothing is needed.

Treasurer of the Indian Arts and Welfare Society, Lt.-Col. Gilbert Howland, said public response has been good, and "we are sending 33 sacks of clothing soon."

The Indian situation was summed up in Ahousat by Roy Sutherland of the Indian band there:

"I've no complaints. Sure, we haven't got much but if we're careful we will make out all right."

CLOTHING ONLY

Meanwhile Professor Charles Burchill, president of the Indian Arts Society, issued a statement here saying he was wrongly quoted earlier this week on the matter of food supplies for the Indians.

He said the reports received by the Indian Arts and Welfare Council dealt only with the need for warm clothing and had no suggestion of any food shortage, as was attributed to him.

Furthermore, he said he had not criticized federal Indian department relief payments since he did not know exactly what they were, but was sure they would be enough to cover the food requirements of the Indians.

The original report of starvation conditions among the Indians came from Alec Anderson, a Vancouver fisherman visiting Victoria, who had stopped at Ahousat.

New Ganges Library Praised at Opening

GANGES — New Salt Spring Island library, erected by residents as a community effort, was opened this week by R. L. Davidson, superintendent of the provincial library commission.

It was supposed to have been a part of the Centennial Museum, but was established at the rear of Mount Bros. store.

Goldstream Big Hit With Tourists

The newest park on Vancouver Island, Goldstream camp and picnic site, died with Miracle Beach as tourist attraction in its first year of operation.

Goldstream claimed 133,972 visitors, compared to Miracle Beach with 134,524 — which made it the Island's top attraction in provincial parks, last summer.

The figures were released by the parks branch Friday.

Miracle Beach drew less visitors last summer than the summer previous — due to the weather in 1959, parks officials believe. The campsite, near Campbell River drew 163,900 visitors in 1958.

The parks branch found 60 per cent of the visitors this year were from B.C., 14 per cent from other parts of Canada and 26 per cent from the United States. At Miracle Beach only 6 per cent were from the U.S.

Vancouver Island drew one quarter of all the tourists who visited the province.

QUEEN MARGARET'S GROWS UP

$250,000 Drive Begins New 'School Adventure'

(From Duncan Bureau)

A three-year building fund drive to raise $250,000 for Queen Margaret's School at Duncan opened this week.

A new school, to be built on 20 acres of wooded land, will be started next spring, and will have a gym, classroom block and staff house. Facing the quad and the Brownsey Avenue entrance will be a new two-storey residential-administrative building.

This Y-shaped modern structure will have a 36 by 56-foot dining hall and an entrance hall of 18 by 10 feet.

The school has grown from a small beginning. On April 4, 1921, Norah C. Denny and Dorothy R. Geoghegan, co-founders, began the "adventure of making a school," when the first class of ten mystified children were taught to say "Adsum," the Latin for "I am present."

FIRST TINY ROOM

This gathering was in the first tiny room built on the grounds at "Holmesdale," and the first term ended in July, 1921.

"We had no equipment when we started, but through the years we have added school-rooms and cubicles, a kitchen and kitchen equipment, a laundry, stables, piano and a laboratory," Miss Denny said.

"We have parents and children today who have always thought of Queen Margaret's School as being well established. They know little of the qualms which beset earlier parents who, greatly daring, sent their children to this new school with its inexperienced heads."

She tells how children attending the school have played their part in its progress.

CHILDREN HELPED

"Earlier generations helped clear and make the hockey field. They helped shingle the roof of the sitting room addition, built in 1954. They helped dig the swimming pool, and clear the chapel site. Children helped to build the air raid shelter during the war years."

The chapel, dedicated in 1934, will be moved to the new site south of the present buildings. Malcolm's Lodge and Canmore House will remain.

ARSENIC OR GARBAGE? ANALYSIS SOUGHT

Mystery Shrouds Dog Deaths

(From Duncan Bureau)

Mystery continues to surround the poisoning deaths of 14 dogs here in the last five weeks.

SPCA Inspector Harold Orrick said contents of the stomach of one dead animal had been sent to UBC for analysis, but that no report had been received.

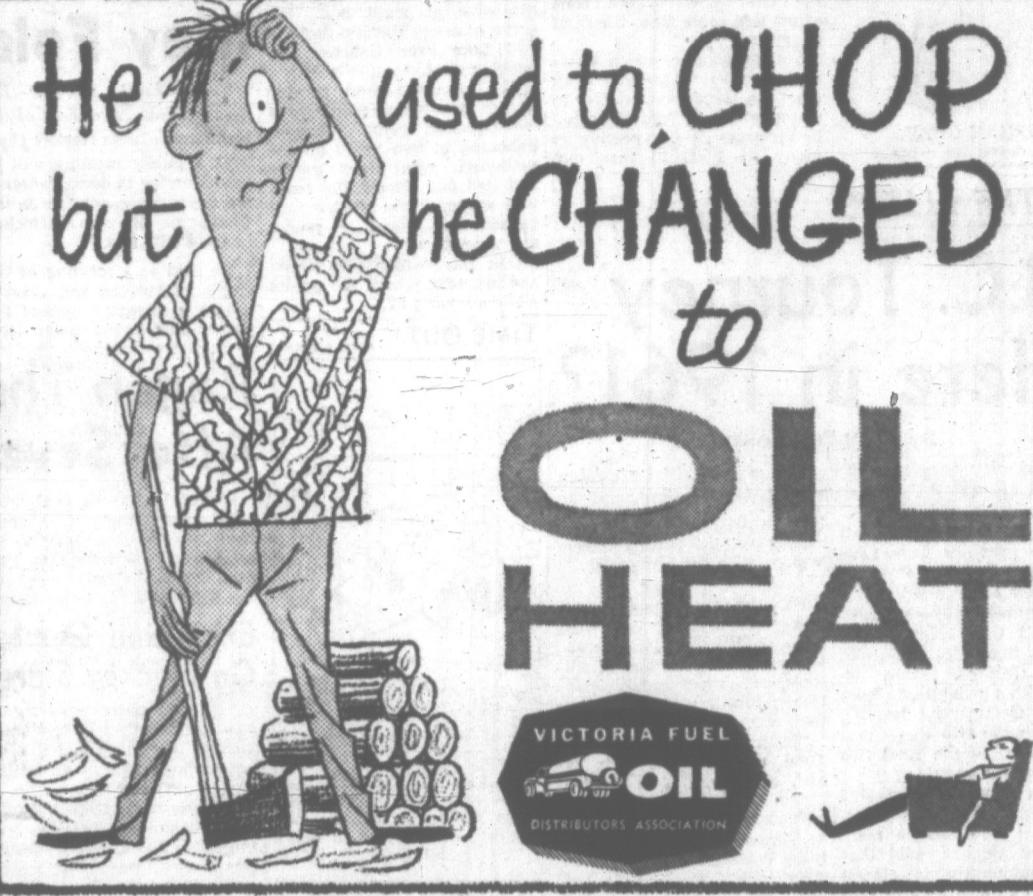

It was earlier thought that strichine alone was responsible, but the different symptoms of the dead animals indicates arsenic could also have been taken.

Mr. Orrick said impure garbage, waste material, or even rat poison could have accounted for the deaths.

"There are many poisonous substances which can be purchased which don't come under the heading of poison," he said.

Dr. D. Lott, a veterinarian, said it appeared suspicious that all the dogs died in the same way. Three of the dogs died Thursday, and two of them were found in their owners' gardens. The other dogs stricken Thursday were recovering under the care of Dr. Lott.

Both the SPCA and RCMP here are investigating the poisonings. Mr. Orrick has warned residents to keep their pets close to home for their own protection.

Opposing Sides Submit Arguments on Fluoridation

By DR. W. W. McLUHAN

Chairman, Fluoridation Committee, B.C. Dental Association

1. Will Fluoridation Reduce Dental Decay?

There is the most reliable evidence that in every area where there is over 1 per cent per million of fluorine in a community water supply, the percentage of decayed teeth has been reduced up to 68 per cent. Brantford, Ontario, is a very good example of this.

2. Will Fluoridation Cause Cancer?

Cancer and heart disease rates have increased everywhere, in fluoridated and non-fluoridated areas alike. All evidence by the National Re-

3. Is Fluorine a Poison?

Massive doses of fluoride are poisonous, just as massive doses of chlorine, iodine, common salt, or many other substances that are part of our everyday diet. In the concentration of one part to a million parts of water, no fluoride compound has the slightest toxic effect. To be poisoned by fluoride would require the drinking, at one sitting, of 450 glasses of water containing one part per million. A lethal dose would require the drinking of 8,000 glasses of water at one time.

Fluorine is one of the bodily constituents, such as iodine, phosphorus and chlorine, any one of which is a poison in large doses.

4. Could Enemy Agents Poison Our Water Supply By Using Fluorine?

Definitely preposterous. It would take four hundred tons of fluoride to poison the water supply of Victoria.

5. Would Fluoridation Change the Taste of the Water, And Ruin the Taste of a Cup of Tea?

Fluorine in the recommended proportion of one part per million is tasteless, colorless and odorless. It is interesting to note that tea is one

6. Is Fluoridation Costly?

Millions of gallons of water are poured down the drain every day that has been treated with chlorine at a greater cost than the cost of fluoridation. In most cities fluoridation costs between six and fifteen cents per year per person. In Victoria, the costs have been estimated at ## 7. Is the Medical Profession In Favor of Fluoridation?

Fluoridation has been endorsed by the heads of departments of preventive medicine of 75 universities in Canada and the United States, as well as the Canadian Medical Association, the Canadian Dental Association, the American Medical Association, American Dental Association, the Canadian National Research Coun-

8. Will Fluoridation Benefit Only Children and Not Adults?

All children grow into adults eventually and will have more and better teeth if they drink fluoridated water during childhood. One survey

9. Will Fluorine Hurt Older People?

Definitely not. Careful surveys by the Commission of Diseases of the Aged and Chronically Ill have shown that in areas where people

10. Will Fluorine Discolor the Teeth?

Definitely not. Discoloration of the enamel does not begin until the concentration of fluorine reaches four or five parts per million and above. Pictures displayed by the anti-fluoridationists were

11. Will Fluoride Added to the Water Produce the Same Effect As Naturally Fluoridated Water?

Yes! In test cities such as Brantford, where it was added, and in Stratford, where it occurs naturally, the results

12. Is Fluoridation Mass Medication?

The purpose of medication is the cure or treatment of disease in some form. Fluorides are not added to water to

13. How Much Research Has Been Done?

A great deal. It has been under study since 1874, that is 85 years. More than 5,000 research studies have been done on it. There has never been a public health measure that has had the research and investigation that fluoridation has had. Brantford has had it for 15 years, and it has been

14. Could Fluorides Be Given in Tablet Form?

Yes, but it is not practical. Tablets were used the tablets would have to be given from the very few places where they could be had until at least the eighth year

15. Would Fluorides Be Obtained From the Aluminum Company—As the Antis Claim?

Definitely not. Here is a statement issued by the Aluminum Company of Canada, dated March 3, 1958, signed by Paul Clark, the director of information:

"Despite rumors to the contrary, I assure you that the

16. What Cities Have Fluoridated Their Water Supplies?

Over 1,800 cities in the United States with a population of over 34,600,000 people, and more cities every month are gaining this great help to better health. Chicago, Philadelphia, Milwaukee, San Francisco, Washington, D.C., and Miami are among the cities.

17. Do Other Countries Beside the United States and Canada Have It?

Yes, they certainly do. They have it in parts of England, Holland, Belgium, Sweden, West Germany, Czechoslovakia, Cairo, Brazil, Chile, Ura-

MRS. LYDIA ARSENS

At the municipal elections next month in Victoria and its three surrounding municipalities, citizens will be asked to vote on whether they are in favor of fluoridating the water supply which is common to all the districts.

Since the water they use comes from a joint source it has been decided that this will only be done if a majority vote of each municipality agrees.

Fluoridation has been a controversial subject wherever it has entered the realm of public discussion. Many professional men on one side argue it is an efficient way of reducing cavities in the teeth, particularly for children.

On the other side are people who claim it is an enforced medication against individual rights and have various other arguments to make.

As a public service, the Times asked the leading spokesman of both sides to submit, within a compass of 1,500 words, the chief arguments for their respective views. In the adjoining columns are their articles.

Smith Had His Chance, Says Dowell

Council Hearing If He'd Shown Up

Ald. Arthur Dowell, answering a complaint by mayorality candidate J. Donald Smith that he had not been officially invited to speak before council Thursday, said today "he'd have been heard, if he had shown up."

Mr. Smith charged that "The acting mayor is well aware of council's procedure by law, which states that no one can appear before council without the unanimous consent of council."

"He advised me by letter he had this consent."

"KNOW TRUTH"

Ald. Dowell said he invited Mr. Smith to address council "so we may know the truth in the election issues."

"I am fully aware of the rules of procedure, whereas it takes only one vote by a councillor to reject anyone from being heard."

If this situation had arisen, said Ald. Dowell, "I would have moved council go into committee of the whole, which does not need unanimous support for a hearing."

Mr. Smith said he had a "statutory declaration" that Ald. Dowell did not have the consent of council to hear his submissions.

"Mr. Smith is perfectly correct when he says he has such a statutory declaration, and I am very surprised that one particular alderman should have taken that stand. It is obvious who he is."

All Police Help In Saanich Hunt For Missing Girl

She is five feet six inches tall, weighs 125 pounds and was wearing black slim-jim slacks, a blue Jimmie Dean style jacket, black head scarf and black suede shoes.

Any information regarding this girl should be given to Saanich police or nearest police department.

Cherry, the fugitive pheasant, today became Cherry the unpleasant pheasant in captivity.

He was fighting mad at being recaptured by his owner after 13 days "on the toot" and tried furiously to bite his way out of the wired wooden crate in which he was trapped.

Miss Jessie Read of 1672 Pembroke, tracked her elusive pet to the house of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Gottfred at 1607 Belmont Avenue.

ARCHIE FUND TO CLOSE AS $2,954 COLLECTED

Fund for recuperating YMCA physical director Archie McKinnon has reached $2,954 and will be closed off Tuesday.

The money came from well-wishers as a token of esteem for the 64-year-old athlete, badly injured last month in a fall while doing a water comedy act in the Crystal Garden pool.

Funds will be used for a convalescent trip to England for Mr. and Mrs. McKinnon.

Big Chest Boom At 'Buildings'

Victoria employees of the B.C. government have boosted their Community Chest donations from $2,100 in 1958 to more than $7,000 this year, it was disclosed today.

Mr. Smith said he had a "statutory declaration" that Ald. Dowell did not have the consent of council to hear his submissions.

Just Married!

Love and marriage are in the headlines these days as many young couples head out on a new road . . . as man and wife. Some of the couples pictured here will make their homes in Victoria, while others will live in other towns or cities. Though all exchanged their vows at different times and in different churches, all have something in common . . . they're just married!

Be Ready to Entertain With Carved Salad Bowl

By PENNY SAVER

Entertaining comes more and more to the forefront at this time of the year. Whether it's a dinner or a buffet-style meal you're planning, your table will take on a look of luxury if you have a crisp salad in one of the beautifully-carved wooden salad bowls I saw this week. Legs of bowl and handles of servers are carved in acorn and oak leaf motif. Set can be bought for $7.95.

Wooden trays are always useful during the entertaining season. I've seen some that come either in white or natural woods. Shell edged, round tray sells at $4.25 and large oval ones are priced at $4.50.

Whether you smoke or not, no home is complete without ash trays these days. Good suggestion, either for your own home or as a Christmas gift, are boxed sets I've seen.

Shaped like butterflies, set contains four ash trays and a dish that can be used for candles, bon bons or nuts. Heavy glass items are generously edged in gold leaf. Set sells at $2.49.

Graceful 18-inch Tuscani trays in same weight glass are priced at $3.25. These are shaped like large leaves and are partitioned for relishes, sandwiches, cakes and other goodies.

Trays are packaged in gift boxes and have same generous trim in gold leaf.

If you are interested in any of these items why not give Penny a ring at EV 2-3131?

Give Her a Housecoat-at Any Age!

Twenty-seven days from now all the carefully wrapped packages will be open . . . bright ribbons and crumpled tissue will decorate the living room rug and the gals who have been lucky enough to receive a hostess coat from Santa Claus will be putting on a fashion show.

From eight to 80 there is a Nona housecoat to suit every woman on your Christmas list. Even bright, cozy robes for the little girl who is just beginning to take an interest in pretty clothes.

A full-length flannel robe from England will put Santa Claus in the number one spot with Grannie.

These robes, in muted shades, have plenty of skirt fullness, deep armholes, and so that they will be comfortable for the more mature figure, the maker has eliminated the waistline seam. From Italy come beautiful hostess gowns in velvet, pure wool and nylon organdy taffeta. The deep pile velvets are glamorous and extra special with luxurious collars, full swirling skirts and full sleeves which are caught in at the wrist with narrow cuffs.

Italian wool robes in plain or checked wool are also available in full-length duster or shortie duster style. Hand finished and trimmed with harmonizing satin binding these are practical as well as attractive.

For the gal who would rather be pretty than practical Italy gives us pale nylon organdy over nylon taffeta and scatter flocked nylon carnations over bodice, skirt and puffed sleeves.

Leaving the imported robes I admired a group of floral printed velvet gowns. Holiday colors . . . blue flowers on a red ground and silver flowers on a blue ground . . . these have buttons to the waist and are then zipped to the hemline. "Romanza", an Arnel fleece in clear turquoise and brilliant tangerine is used for full-length and duster-length housecoats with three-way ties at the waistline.

Dainty hand-washable quilted chiffon in lovely floral patterns makes up into a smart coachman style.

For those who prefer a fitted robe there are quilted rayons in white with scarlet flowers and navy with snow-white trim.

Pretty . . . pretty . . . pretty is the pale-pink, rayon, free-flowing duster with full push-up sleeves. Tear-drop pearls trim the Peter Pan collar of this extremely feminine at-home robe.

There are many more from which to choose.

Now is the time to drop a hint or two to the man in your life.

A "Present from Santa" is this lovely full-length robe made in white double-quilted tricot. A rose and leaf motif with a flowing red velvet bow gives a pleasing effect to the back of this stunning garment.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The woman who is completely satisfied with her figure is as rare as snow in the tropics.

A woman may have the correct weight and have perfect or near-perfect measurements, but she will find a little pad of fat here or there, a touch of flabbiness, or a bit too much or too little curve or bones, or muscles which are too prominent, or one breast which is the tiniest bit larger than the other, or some other real but insignificant or imagined defect.

Thank heaven for this feminine characteristic! It keeps us on our toes and while few women can have an absolutely perfect figure, this dissatisfaction with ourselves causes us to work toward a much more attractive silhouette.

In case you wish to analyze yourself follow these directions. Measure around your bust at the largest part. You can measure with or without a brassiere. Just be sure to wear the same one the next time you measure because the type of bra can make quite a difference in this measurement.

Next measure around your natural waistline. Assume your natural posture, neither pushing the abdomen out or pulling it far in toward the back bone. Do not pull the tape too tight but do not allow it to be slack.

As a general rule your bust and hips should measure the same and your waist should be 10 inches less than your hips. Use this only as a guide. Not every woman can achieve these measurements.

These four measurements are the most crucial ones: the bust, the waist, the abdomen and the hips. In all cases be certain that the tape measure passes straight around the body. If it goes up on one side and down on the other, you will not get accurate information concerning your figure.

A WRITER'S DIARY

By ROBERTSON DAVIES

THE FIRST THING to be said about Tyrone Guthrie's autobiography, A Life in the Theatre (McGraw-Hill), is that it is wonderfully readable, because that is what prospective readers want to know.

But its charm and wit are, so to speak, ornamental cut in its essential granite; it is a serious and important book about the theatre by a man whom Brooks Atkinson recently called the greatest theatrical director in the world. Dr. Guthrie is at the top of a profession whose existence is spanned by his own life.

When he was born, in 1900, such directors as existed were little more than stage-managers in a theatre which belonged to great actors and, sometimes, great writers. Nowadays the theatre belongs to the directors; players and writers alike dance to their tune. From Dr. Guthrie's book we learn something about the influences and native gifts that have made one man a great director.

Non-Commercial Theatres Real Thing

What impresses the attentive reader is the realism of the book. Dr. Guthrie is often praised as an idealist, devoted to such supposedly uncommercial ventures as the Old Vic, the Glasgow Citizens' Theatre, the Stratford (Ont.) Shakespearean Festival, and the Habima Theatre, where classics and plays of unusual merit are presented.

But is this idealism? Are not these if we take the theatre seriously, its 'real' homes, and the showshops of Broadway and the West End its tributaries?

Determination to Range Far and Wide

Idealism has unfortunate connotations of impracticality and messiness; Dr. Guthrie is a thoroughgoing professional. When he travels to Finland or Israel he has no fear that his absence from Broadway or the West End will be interpreted by his colleagues as banishment.

His determination to range far and wide, to do the work he thinks most important, to experiment, and to press for the decentralization of the theatre, have gained him the authority of a peripatetic theatrical Pope, when many of the best among his fellow directors have remained cardinals.

Comedian's Cloak Covers Crusader

Tyrone Guthrie is apt to be taken for an Irish comedian by those who meet him casually, and the literary gift which marks his autobiography emphasizes this impression of a mercurial and whimsical nature.

But quite a short acquaintance is enough to reveal the Presbyterian divine, the crusader and the moralist, whose scorn for the trivial, the self-seeking and the oblique is like a winter's blast. Sometimes both great-grandfathers seem to be reincarnated at once, and the result is another of those stories which actors who have worked for him treasure, and tell with inaccurate mimicry.

Heredit is a variable and, in the case of so determined a character as Dr. Guthrie, it would be stupid to emphasize it. At least equally influential in making him what he is are his very strong musical sense, his independence of judgment (which sometimes looks like irreverence) and a restless turbulence of character.

His cast of mind is intuitive, and in his writing, as in his production he changes rapidly from gravity to farce, and varies acute sensitivity of judgment with flashes of what is raffish and occasionally rowdy.

It is his strong musical bent; perhaps, which enables him to give form to material which, in fact, has no form; yet this form is not imposed upon his reminiscences, but is suggested by careful arrangements of emphasis. The effect reminds us of a fine piece of stage lighting.

Like all good books 'A Life in the Theatre' may be read at several levels. It contains enough gossip about Chrls

ART IN REVIEW

By MONCRIEFF WILLIAMSON

Conservative Competence In Island Groups' Show

The Vancouver Island Art Groups Exhibition, on view at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria (through Dec. 6) is the result of much critical self-effacement on the part of the various groups concerned. Instead of sending their works for trial by jury in Victoria, each group was restricted to four exhibits, and the selection was made at point of origin.

In two instances, at least, the works were chosen by ballot. Saanich Peninsula Art Centre invited Mrs. Peggy Packard to make the selection, while the remainder of the groups arrived at their decisions by forming their own juries or by other, unspecified arrangements.

Each group, it would appear, did a more thorough job. In some centres, artists who were too Williamson modest about their own efforts, stood down so that others might have a chance of being chosen. Thus a good, cooperative spirit of harmony and fellowship is in evidence, while many of the expected names are marked by their absence.

General Level

Taken all round, then, this is a good exhibition representing the true potentials of the various groups involved. When one remembers that many works are sold at their own local exhibitions, one can appreciate that, if anything, the present exhibition in Victoria reflects the common, general level of attainment, leaving aside works which might have been included had they not already been purchased.

What emerges also, I think, is the determined conservatism of many of the artists; artists who pursue their aims within the bounds of conformity. This is not because the majority are unaware of what is taking place in the rest of the world of art, but because Vancouver Island operates, culturally, in the gentler backwaters of the world stream.

There is a preference to paddle near the safe and known shore rather than swim venturously into deeper and more exciting waters.

That this exhibition is proving immensely popular with its many visitors merely confirms the above comment. Most people would rather play safe than cut capers and come a cropper. We like our own looking glass.

Guidance Lack

It is always hoped that ways will be found to organize and exchange art instructors between the various Island centres. Too often, groups are working with either partial or no instruction, they are not always able to discuss modern movements in art outside their own immediate experience and there is an inevitable tendency to avoid the stimulation of controversy. All this is reflected in their own output.

In this exhibition there is no question of deciding which group is producing the "best" work. The distinction of being leader among groups is not part of the philosophy which motivates the broader ambition of having a healthy, progressive art co-operative on the box-office.

It offers brilliant pages of travesty, such as the writer's description of singing-lessons with the great Garcia, and an encounter with that epitome of stardom, Miss Jane Cowell.

It is a meaty book, indeed, and the only regret the reader has is that the publishers have not given it any illustrations.

Grim Novel Compels Attention

YOUR SINS AND MINE, a novel by Taylor Caldwell (Caxton 1959); $3.00.

What would happen if God forsakes the World as we forsake Him is the theme of Miss Taylor Caldwell's latest novel, which first appeared in McCall's magazine.

Only a trained, highly skilled writer such as Taylor Caldwell could tackle such a grim subject and make the plot not only digestible but plausible. This Miss Caldwell has succeeded in doing and her novel never flags in its interest, nor does she spare the reader from the vision of the end of a world stripped of Faith.

This is a beautifully written novel with a strong religious theme. A novel which compels attention from beginning to end.—M.W.

friends

There are new footnotes to Canadian history in this intimate story of an enduring friendship between two great Canadians, and their influence on major national and international events of our times.

Seen in the light of the intimate friendship between Lord Beaverbrook, the dynamic newspaperman and British Cabinet Minister, and Viscount Bennett, former Canadian Prime Minister, important events of our time, achieve a fascinating new perspective. Especially momentous is the revelation of Bennett's dream of a great cooperative trade relationship between the United Kingdom and Canada, and how his personal vanity caused its downfall.

In the author's crisp style, an affectionate yet frankly critical portrait of Bennett is sketched with unusual perception.

In the process, Beaverbrook gives some quite unexpected clues to his own character.

"Friends" is reading of assured significance and interest for every serious observer of Canada's political evolution.

The
Sounding Board
By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

Nothing that is not a block of wood or stone can afford to stand still. If a plant's growth is halted for more than the briefest period, it deteriorates, dies prematurely.

If the muscles of the human body are immobilized for long they wither. The talents of an artist, allowed to bog down through inertia or smugness, will soon fail him.

An organization or a corporation (including a city) that is not marching forward can not hold its own indefinitely. The time will soon come when retrogression will set in.

Sometimes the price of progress is high but it is always worth while in the long run.

"No orchestra worth its salt is ever in the black," Kent C. Hurley, general manager of the Winnipeg Symphony, told a Canadian Press reporter recently. "If it is, it's falling down. It should be increasing and improving."

The sort of thing that is meant by this statement is illustrated by the Vancouver Symphony Society, which spends every cent it can scrape together on raising the standard and scope of the orchestra.

Or by Toronto Symphony, which must continually take to itself more costly musicians and at the same time extend its field of operations and number of concerts in order to reach more and more people.

One of the top-earning orchestras in Canada this year, it faces a record budget deficit of $175,000.

In fact, according to a Canadian Press survey, this season's operations will see orchestras in 14 cities struggling with record deficits.

Chief factors that boost costs for any orchestra worthy of serious consideration are the same all over the North American Continent.

Taking Better Music to More People

For example, travelling expenses, as all major orchestras from Victoria, east, strive toward the ideal of decentralization; children's concerts that will expose hundreds more young people every year to the influence of fine music; training programs through bursaries, and scholarships to gifted young musicians who are potential future symphony players; self-improvement through adding the finest available instrumentalists to the orchestra personnel, and the appointment of top-flight conductors.

From all this it should be easily understood why no orchestra can operate within its budget and still justify its existence.

A symphony orchestra has its business side that must be managed by people with business acumen, but it is not a strictly commercial venture and must not be so regarded.

It is costly but an asset, not a luxury; an important part of education and a powerful factor in any advanced civilization.

Incidentally, one of the difficulties that face orchestra leaders and directors in cities like Victoria, is brought to light this week by an SOS from Hans Gruber.

The viola section of our orchestra, in need of strength recently acquired the services of an especially fine young violinist whose musicianship promises to be a real asset to the organization as a whole.

He, however, will not be able to become a permanent member unless he can find a job to support himself and his family.

Mr. Gruber is keeping his fingers crossed that someone will come forward with a job for the young musician who is willing to take any reasonable offer.

having one. Suzy Parker, Miss Crawford's secretary, is having one, although not with a member of the firm. Brian Aherne, a married senior editor, isn't having one although certainly not through lack of trying. And even young Diane Baker is well on the road though her innocence prevents her from seeing what she is letting herself in for.

AS A COMEDY "Best of Everything" is at its best. It is only when it tries for the dramatic and the tragic that it becomes awkward in its reach. For instance there is one scene that leaves Miss Parker out on a stoop spying on her lover Louis Jourdan. Much time passes in other things and then the camera swings back to Miss Parker. The kid is still on the stoop and one wonders if she wasn't built in with the building.

No matter. Miss Lange with a hangover makes a wonderful scene, ably assisted by her second love, nicely played by Stephen Boyd. Miss Baker proves a lovely and interesting newcomer. She is so in love with her life in the big city after the quiet of home that you can almost see the stars in her eyes. But possibly the most humorous person on view is veteran Aherne who is devastating as the office's cheerful lady-pinch. Miss Crawford is well cast but to most will be an unsympathetic figure.

In summary: "The Best of Everything" is good for many a laugh and, perhaps, several crocodile tears.

OF ALL PLACES

By HORACE SUTTON

The Caribbean, we have discovered, has everything. If you want to live cheaply there is the free port of Curacao. If you want to live decorously, there is the social resort of Montego Bay. If you want to live chastely, there are the Virgin Islands. And if you want to live dangerously, ah, then, señor, there is the island of Cuba, where last year Castro won the revolution by a whisker.

When I say Castro won the revolution by a hair, I don't mean it was a close shave, for the bearded ones have not yet seen fit to mow their foliage, and they still patrol the streets and the hotel lobbies sporting their facial under-brush and their rifles. The young ones whose chins are still fallow grow long hair that runs down the necks, and in their combat suits they look like yogis in uniform. Others tie their tresses in a pony tail and snap on a rubber band. The land reform may be helping the farmers but the barbers are going broke.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

By JACK BEASTALL
Q. Are the plastic flower pots as good for growing house plants as the clay pots? — Mrs. J. H., Lake Hill.

A. A great deal of scientific research has been done on the growth of plants in plastic pots. Boiled down, the evidence shows that the greatest difference lies in the non-porous nature of the plastic, therefore watering will be less frequent than for clay.

On the other hand, the plastic retains warmth longer than clay, resulting in a longer period of root activity in the warmer soil. Plants have been shown to grow at a faster rate in plastic than in clay. From personal experience, would advise using more open textured soil than usual, containing more sand and peat moss than for clay pots.

BEASTALL ADVISES

Pity Parched Patio Plants As Deluge Dunks Garden

By JACK BEASTALL

After the heavy rainfall of the past two weeks it seems unlikely that anyone would be writing about the watering of outdoor plants, but that is our subject for today.

It is the saturated condition of the exposed portions of the garden compared to the dryness of the sheltered spots that makes us wonder whether we should continue to consider artificial watering as a pastime for only the summer months.

Modern home designs embody a modification of the Spanish patio, originally an inner court of a Spanish villa open to the sky. As a concession to the climate, the patio in the north is usually covered by a roof or partly protected by overhanging eaves.

By way of California has come the Spanish custom of growing plants on, or should we say in, the patio, therefore beds, planters, and brick imitations of tubs have been included in our northern patios.

Wide Choice
Since the overall design of our houses is intended to be enhanced by the foliage of plants we are compelled to use plant material which retains its foliage throughout the year, that is, evergreens.

Fortunately there are a number of plants we normally grow in the open which can be used in the shelter of a patio, and there are others which do better in such a protected area than they would in the open garden.

To obtain the desired foliage effect the plants must be well grown, and this requires that the gardener remember they are in a semi-artificial position, and that he appreciates the difference between evergreen and deciduous (leaf-losing) plants.

We know that all plants give off moisture from their leaves as long as their roots are able to pick up moisture, and that wilting of the foliage is an indication the moisture is being given off faster than it is being replaced.

Deciduous plants cease to transpire as their leaves are readied for dropping, but evergreens continue giving off moisture, or transpiring, throughout the year because the leaves are always functioning.

Wind Wilt
Transpiration is increased when wind blows over the foliage, and most of us will have noticed the increased wilting of foliage on a windy afternoon in summer. It is this loss of moisture due to wind that retards the rapid establishment of plants set out or divided in spring.

It is not difficult to imagine the amount of water taken from the foliage of an evergreen in the air movement associated with a winter gale, even when the plant is not directly in the wind. In the water soaked soil of the open garden the roots are able to replace the losses, but in the patio, or under wide eaves where rain cannot reach, the effect of rapid air movement can be devastating as summer drought.

It is doubtful if any owner of a home with a patio planting, or a foundation planting under wide eaves, has been outside with a hosepipe during the recent rains and winds making sure that the protected plants received sufficient water to maintain thrifty growth.

Misleading
During the past two years we have inspected many patio plantings at the request of owners to determine, if pos-

NOBODY STOOD UP
FOR BRIDE

INVERCARGILL, N.Z. (Reuters)—The groom said "I do" at a wedding here Friday—and fainted.

The best man handed him the wedding ring—and fainted.

A bridesmaid keeled over a few minutes before.

The ceremony finally was completed minus the best man and one bridesmaid—with the groomsman seated on a chair.

The day was hot. It's summer here.

Urged to Open Up
B.C. Liquor Laws

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver Tourist Association has asked for widespread changes in British Columbia liquor laws, including Sunday opening of parlors and use of barmaids in licensed clubs and lounges.

The proposals were approved Thursday by directors of the association for a brief to be presented to the provincial government.

Director Jack Melville said the present laws are "constant sources of irritation in the tourist business."

OTHER CHANGES

Among other major changes were:

1. Sale of beer and wine in grocery stores.

2. An end to closure of liquor outlets on election days.

3. Introduction of "standup" bars, where patrons stand while drinking.

4. Elimination of compulsory closure of beer parlors on Sunday and other major changes in the Liquor Act.

Mr. Baker said he was opposed to Sunday opening of beer parlors and he doesn't believe tourists want beer parlors opened on Sunday anyway.

There have been very few changes in the B.C. Liquor Act since it was passed in 1953. Mr. Melville said, "It is high time there were some."

"At present a man can guzzle a whole bottle in his hotel room, but he can't order just one drink. But his hotel room is his home, it's his domicile."

Mr. Melville said the tourist association is "not out to pro-

SUNDAY BEER
OPPOSED
BY ALDERMAN

VANCOUVER (CP)—A member of the Vancouver Tourist Association says the association's brief to the provincial government has not been completed and many changes may yet be made.

Alderman Frank Baker said the report was only a temporary one and it must go back to the executive for study and be sent to the association again.

The temporary brief contained among its proposals a call for beer parlors being open on Sunday and other major changes in the Liquor Act.

Mr. Baker said he was opposed to Sunday opening of beer parlors and he doesn't believe tourists want beer parlors opened on Sunday anyway.

more the sale of liquor, but to promote common-sense amendment to the liquor laws.

Rev. H. T. Allen, secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance of British Columbia, said the proposal was "extremely illogical."

Ken Campbell, president of the B.C. Hotel's Association, said his group is definitely against Sunday sale of beer.

Mr. Melville said the tourist association is "not out to promerce, said the only complaints he heard came from people who wanted their drinking places patterned after the English pub.

"I believe we have much better control here in B.C. by selling all liquor through government outlets," Mr. Pendray said.

"I believe that tourists can get all they want to drink now without much trouble."

Rev. A. C. Hammill, a Baptist church minister, said he disapproved of the proposed changes.

"Those who are proposing them do not seem to realize that more liquor outlets mean more drinking and more alcoholics."

Publicity Commissioner George L. Warren declared:

"We have not received any complaints. If tourists have any objection to our liquor laws they would be sure to come to us."

L. A. Boll, manager of the James Bay Hotel, said:

"It is only since 1953 that we have had sensible liquor laws. We have come a long way from the time when you could only buy liquor from government stores."

"I would say the government has handled the liquor situation very well."

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said he would look forward to receiving the recommendations of the Vancouver tourist group. But he added:

"My immediate reaction is that there is more to the tourist business than liquor. I don't think tourists come here just to drink."

In the event of the poll being necessary, such poll will be opened at Esquimalt on December 1, 1959, at the hour of 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. in the afternoon.

Mr. Pendray said he would look forward to receiving the recommendations of the Vancouver tourist group. But he added:

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

150 Cars Banged On Icy Bridge

(Compiled From CP)

VANCOUVER — Heavy fog and ice turned the south-end Oak Street Bridge into a motorized battlefield Friday, involving more than 150 cars by police estimate in smash-ups.

One pileup on the mile-long bridge across the Fraser River involved 35 cars, police said. Another had 23 vehicles in it and a third took in 18.

"We don't know how many have been injured," an RCMP officer said. "We just haven't had time to bother with the ones who needed a stitch or two."

Seven persons were taken to hospital with injuries. One towing firm had 23 damaged cars in its yard before noon and another had eight.

Vancouver International Airport was closed down, with scheduled airliners using Abbotsford Airport, 40 miles away. The airport control tower said only a few planes had managed to get off through patches in the fog and there were no in-coming flights.

XMAS BROWNOUT REVELSTOKE — City council has asked Revelstoke residents to turn off their Christmas tree lights during peak load periods next month because of a power shortage.

Council declined, however, to endorse proposals of electrical superintendent William Jamieson for a ban on outdoor Christmas lights and on connection of new water heaters.

FRAUD CHARGED NAKSUP — A warrant has been issued for a 24-year-old man on a charge of false pretences. He has been missing with his wife since last July.

John Donald Paul, 24, is being sought in connection with his purchase of a car at Nelson last July 6. He and his wife left nearby Edgewood, in the Arrow Lakes area of the B.C. Interior, without advising relatives.

NEW LAB OPENED

VANCOUVER — The new $350,000 G. F. Strong medical laboratory was opened Friday at the University of B.C. The plant in Vancouver.

'IMPRactical' Says Mackenzie

Entrance Exam for UBC?

VANCOUVER (CP) — An entrance examination for all students entering the University of B.C., proposed by the Alumni Association Board of Management, would be impractical and would add close to $100,000 to the university's annual budget, University president Norman MacKenzie said Friday night.

Dr. MacKenzie said the alumni should be sure "some one will be able to find the money to pay for it," before making such resolutions.

However, the president said he is in favor of another alumni resolution recommending equalization grants for out-of-town students.

"I would set an arbitrary amount of $30 a month as being required for out-of-town students," he said.

Dr. MacKenzie said he favored non-interest bearing loans for students not repayable until two years after graduation.

"Students are not in a position to pay interest," he said.

A report by the university's board of governors released

Friday by the chairman of the alumni committee, Dean

Walter Gage, said the university is able to provide only one-twelfth of the amount necessary for the expenses of its more than 10,000 students and more than half of that has to be repaid.

Canada's Stake In Japan

For my recent tour of Japan and the chance to write the following dispatches I have to thank the Japanese Government whose hospitality knew no limit; Prime Minister Kishi who took time to answer all my questions in detail and candor; Mr. Toru Higuchi, Japanese ambassador to Canada, who invited me to his country; Mr. M. Tanabe, Japanese consul-general in Vancouver who arranged my travels exactly as I desired; Mr. S. Kondo, director of the Public Information Bureau of the Foreign Ministry and his colleague, Mr. Taro Inagawa, who opened all official doors to me; and especially Mr. Naoshi Shimanouchi, a distinguished official of the Foreign Ministry, who volunteered to be my guide and interpreter and ended as my friend.—B.H.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

For historic, racial and cultural reasons Canada's eyes have always turned, and its military forces have always moved, eastward across the Atlantic to Europe. But today, when Europe is prosperous and stabilized while Asia is gripped by hunger and revolution; Canada's external danger lies primarily westward, across the Pacific.

The only physical shield against that danger is a vast arc of power built by the United States athwart the Russo-Chinese Communist empire. And the keystone of that arc is the astounding, little-known nation of Japan.

Hutchison

Actually, as a Canadian traveller soon realizes, Japan is less a nation than an explosion, or rather a sequence of explosions repeatedly projecting their energies into the life-stream of civilization.

At the moment we are witnessing—but in Canada are ignoring—the latest of the ### Canadian Conception All Wrong.

Sufficient to say at the beginning that Japan is not the nation, the economy, or the society that most Canadians imagine but something else entirely.

Whatever it may be as a state and a people, which way is Japan going—to the free world or to the Communist empire? Second only to the future of the Chinese revolution, that is the largest question in Asia, where most of humanity lives.

It is too early to answer the question for it will not be answered by Japan alone but by the free world, including Canada.

Japan's choice has been firmly made, in favor of freedom, and it has achieved within 14 years a society as free as any in the West. But its choice can be maintained only if Japan is given the chance to live and prosper as a free nation.

If it is not given that chance, if the free world, including Canada, refuses to buy its products, Japan will be forced to turn to the Communists.

The lines of physical power are drawn nakedly on the

U.S. Makes No Secret of Strategy

It is no secret to Russia and China—indeed, the United States wants them to understand the facts beyond any possible question—that American power is deployed in an unbroken arc from the Aleutian Islands to Korea, Japan, Okinawa, Formosa, the Philippines, Australia and New Zealand.

It is so deployed with the full consent and by the ardent wish of the peoples on these islands.

Throughout the arc, with its

EVEN JAIL FIRST CLASS AROUND GREY CUP TIME

TORONTO (CP) — Things can get kind of rough-around Grey Cup time.

To make sure exuberant fans don't run beyond the bounds of good sense, police have set up a jail in the downtown Royal York Hotel.

They have taken over a suite for the temporary lockup and assigned extra officers to look after it.

Police emphasized they aren't around to cramp anybody's style. They seek to protect rather than prosecute.

Coast Campaign For Next Classic

TORONTO (CP) — Vancouver is definitely out to get the 1960 Grey Cup game.

Harry Spring, president of British Columbia Lions, and Don McKenzie, chairman of Vancouver's 1958 Grey Cup committee, told a meeting of the Canadian Football League Friday that the West Coast city is anxious to stage the East-West final again.

The decision will be made at the CFL's annual meeting early in February in Winnipeg.

"We're the proudest team in Canada because we're from the proudest city in Canada."

The final was played in Vancouver last year and in 1955, the first time it has been held in the West.

The CFL meeting received a telegram from Premier W. A. C. Bennett of B.C. saying the province would welcome the classic back next year.

Vancouver intends to campaign actively to get the game.

On each table at the Grey Cup dinner Friday night was a printed card saying Premier Bennett "invites you to attend the Grey Cup festival in British Columbia in 1960." A colored brochure promoting B.C. also was distributed among the guests.

More than 5,000 Hamilton football fans wooped it up on

Opposing Sides Submit Arguments on Fluoridation

By DR. W. W. McLUHAN

Chairman, Fluoridation Committee, B.C. Dental Association

1. Will Fluoridation Reduce Dental Decay?

There is the most reliable evidence that in every area where there is over 1 per cent per million of fluoride in a community water supply, the percentage of decayed teeth has been reduced up to 68 per cent. Brantford, Ontario, is a very good example of this

2. Will Fluoridation Cause Cancer?

Cancer and heart disease rates have increased everywhere, in fluoridated and non-fluoridated areas alike. All evidence by the National Re-

3. Is Fluorine a Poison?

Massive doses of fluoride are poisonous, just as massive doses of chlorine, iodine, common salt, or many other substances that are part of our everyday diet. In the concentration of one part to a million parts of water, no fluoride compound has the slightest toxic effect. To be poisoned by fluoride would require the drinking, at one sitting, of 450 glasses of water containing one part per million. A lethal dose would require the drinking of 8,000 glasses of water at one time.

Fluorine is one of the bodily constituents, such as iodine, phosphorus and chlorine, any one of which is a poison in large doses.

4. Could Enemy Agents Poison Our Water Supply By Using Fluorine?

Definitely preposterous. It would take four hundred tons of fluoride to poison the water supply of Victoria.

5. Would Fluoridation Change the Taste of the Water, And Ruin the Taste of a Cup of Tea?

Fluorine in the recommended proportion of one part per million is tasteless, colorless and odorless. It is interesting to note that tea is one

6. Is Fluoridation Costly?

Millions of gallons of water are poured down the drain every day that have been treated with chlorine at a greater cost than the cost of fluoridation. In most cities fluoridation costs between six and fifteen cents per year per person. In Victoria, the costs have been estimated at

7. Is the Medical Profession in Favor of Fluoridation?

Fluoridation has been endorsed by the heads of departments of preventive medicine of 75 universities in Canada and the United States, as well as the Canadian Medical Association, the Canadian Dental Association, the American Medical Association, American Dental Association, the Canadian National Research Coun-

8. Will Fluoridation Benefit Only Children and Not Adults?

All children grow into adults eventually and will have more and better teeth if they drink fluoridated water during childhood. One survey

9. Will Fluorine Hurt Older People?

Definitely not. Careful surveys by the Commission of Diseases of the Aged and Chronically Ill have shown that in areas where people

10. Will Fluoride Discolor the Teeth?

Definitely not. Discoloration of the enamel does not begin until the concentration of fluoride reaches four or five parts per million and above. Pictures displayed by the anti-fluoridationists were taken by Dr. Mackay in 1938, and were given as evidence of mottling where the fluoride content was 14.5 per million. It is a deliberate falsehood by the anti-fluoridationists that this happens at one part per million.

11. Will Fluoride Added to the Water Produce the Same Effect As Naturally Fluoridated Water?

Yes! In test cities such as Brantford, where it was added, and in Stratford, where it occurs naturally, the results

12. Is Fluoridation Mass Medication?

The purpose of medication is the cure or treatment of disease in some form. Fluorides are not added to water to

13. How Much Research Has Been Done?

A great deal. It has been under study since 1874, that is 85 years. More than 5,000 research studies have been done on it. There has never been a public health measure that has had the research and investigation that fluoridation has had. Brantford has had it for 15 years, and it has been

14. Could Fluorides Be Given In Tablet Form?

Yes, but it is not practical. Tablets were used, the tablets would have to be given from the first few days after birth until at least the eighth year

15. Would Fluorides Be Obtained From the Aluminum Company—As the Antis Oppose?

Definitely not. Here is a statement issued by the Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd., dated March 3, 1958, signed by Paul Clark, the director of information:

"Despite rumors to the contrary, I assure you that the

16. What Cities Have Fluoridated Their Water Supplies?

Over 1,800 cities in the United States with a population of over 34,600,000 people, and more cities every month are gaining this great help to better health. Chicago, Philadelphia, Milwaukee, San Francisco, Washington, D.C., and Miami are among the cities.

17. Do Other Countries Beside the United States and Canada Have It?

Yes, they certainly do. They have it in parts of England, New Zealand, the Philippines, and in Japan. It is reducing decay in all these places with no ill effects.

PRO

DR. W. W. McLUHAN

At the municipal elections next month in Victoria and its three surrounding municipalities, citizens will be asked to vote on whether they are in favor of fluoridating the water supply which is common to all the districts.

Since the water they use comes from a joint source it has been decided that this will only be done if a majority vote of each municipality agrees.

Fluoridation has been a controversial subject wherever it has entered the realm of public discussion. Many professional men on one side argue it is an efficient way of reducing cavities in the teeth, particularly for children.

On the other side are people who claim it is an enforced medication against individual rights and have various other arguments to make.

As a public service, the Times asked the leading spokesman of both sides to submit, within a compass of 1,500 words, the chief arguments for their respective views. In the adjoining columns are their articles.

CON

MRS. LYDIA ARSENS

By LYDIA ARSENS
President, Victoria Branch, National Health Federation

The following are the reasons why I, like thousands of other citizens, are against the fluoridation of any water supply:

Sodium fluoride, a common vermin, rat, coyote and timber wolf exterminator, is a by-product of the manufacture of aluminum Cryolite, the ore mined and shipped by thousands of tons to refineries. It is sodium aluminum fluoride. By a special process aluminum is extracted and sodium fluoride is left.

U.S. Dispensary, 24th Edition, Page 1457 states:

"Fluorides are violent poisons to all living tissues because of their precipitation of calcium."

When introduced to the mammalian circulation, they cause fall of blood pressure, respiratory failure and general paralysis. Continuous ingestion of non-fatal doses cause general cachexia and permanent inhibition of growth.

Dr. G. L. Walbott, MD, vice-president of the American College of Allergists and a Fellow of the American Academy of Allergies, who has published more than 100 papers on his research work, has collected 18 cases of patients who suffered as a result of fluoridated water supplies at one part per million. Eight doctors checked one patient. All were relieved of their symptoms merely by changing to non-fluoridated water. (This is report of Alfred Taylor, Ph.D., research scientist, Biochemical Institute, University of Texas, Oral Health Mag., March, 1955).

Dr. F. A. Zeldier, Toronto chemist, warned that fluoridation could be a grave mistake and a dangerous folly.

Research has shown, he said, that fluorine tends to deprive body of calcium, weakening various organs.

"We have ample proof and absolute evidence of damage fluorine has done to health in many cases."

Nine Reasons

I have in my possession reprints of resolutions of the following groups who opposed fluoridation:

1. Eighty-three doctors petitioned Governor Williams of Lansing, Mich.

2. Over 500 doctors and dentists formed an ad hoc committee on evaluation of fluoridation. They came up with nine reasons why they opposed fluoridation, signed by Jonathan Forman, MD, national chairman, Columbus, Ohio.

3. Association of American Physicians and Surgeons, Inc. (15,000 members), in convention at San Francisco, April 12, 1958, condemned fluoridation and sent the resolution to the president of the United States, members of Congress, governors of all states and mayors of principal cities.

Over 2,000 American cities have already turned it down, some for the first time and others after many sad experiences with ill health and with trouble with the waterworks systems.

The surgeon-general of the United States Public Health Service; the very top man of the organization that is heading this drive for fluoridation, when under oath in the Delaney hearings, has to admit and say this:

Mottled Teeth

Dr. W. J. McCormick, a member of the American Academy of Nutrition, told their meeting there is no conclusive evidence that fluorine serves any useful purpose in animal nutrition. Many parts in the world have no trace of fluorine, and yet the teeth of the people are perfect among the natives who get no refined foods. It is calcium and other minerals that are essential to the health of the tooth.

If Brantford, Ontario, after over 10 years of fluoridation is such a marvellous example of benefits derived, then why did the Appeal Court of Ontario, and the Supreme Court of Ontario ban fluoridation of water supplies in Ontario? Why did the Hon. M. B. Dymond, MD, minister of health, have the courage to defy all these high pressure proponents and speak against the measure? Why?

Results Compared

My answer is this: Dr. Dymond has taken the time to study both sides of the issue. He is a mature, conscientious minister of health, and may the people of Canada pray for more men of courage and wisdom for the sake of old and young alike.

They admit that these occur in about 10 to 20 per cent of the children, even in natural fluoridated areas.

Are we going to sacrifice these children for life for the sake of merely deterring caries in another percentage of children?

No Guarantees

5. New York Federation of Women's Clubs list six reasons why they voted against fluoridation. This they did, after an unbiased pro and con study was made by all groups. Quite contrary to our proponents' advice and influence in getting our PTAs, our Chambers of Commerce and other groups who close their doors to opponents speak.

A photostatic copy of the legal department of the AMA has this paragraph:

It is not true that AMA guarantees the safety of fluoridated water supply and assumes the responsibility for damages done to persons.

If it is so safe, then why don't they?

The City of New York will not fluoridate its water supply because it maintains that its duty is to provide pure water for its people, and not use the water as a vehicle for mass medication.

Wrong Morally. Dr. Frederick B. Exner, Seattle, says: "It is wrong morally. We have no right to damage permanently one segment of the population to help another. (Even if fluoridation did help.) We have no right to force anyone to take medicine, even if it is good."

Wrong economically—Very wasteful and extravagant. Only $5 out of every $1,000 spent will go to the alleged group who benefit.

"Not safe nor sane—Every doctor is responsible to his patient. No doctor in his right mind will say 'Here is your medicine. Take it home and use it as much as you like and we will trust that you will get the right amount, whether you need it or not.'

"It is not what proportion leaves at the source of supply that counts, but how much enters the body of each individual where it accumulates."

Toxic Effects

Dr. Chas. A. Brusch, director of the Medical Centre, Cambridge, listed some of the toxic effects of fluoride:

1. Damage to the nerve and brain cells.

2. Harm to the reproductive organs, with resulting lowering of birth.

3. Affects the thyroid gland and damages the liver.

4. Creates a high incidence of bone fractures.

The following are some of the many outstanding men of the world who are opposed:

Dr. Jonathan Forman, MD, professor of the history of medicine at State University, Ohio; Dr. R. S. Harris, PhD, professor of biochemistry at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Dr. A. L. Miller, MD and surgeon (congressman for Nebraska) and former state health director of the State of Nebraska, who, like Dr. Arthur MacWhinnie of Seattle, was at first a proponent of fluoridation but later, after getting the other side of the fluoridation drive, has become an ardent opponent.

GREY CUP

Scott, playing in his fourth Grey Cup final since he joined the Ticats in 1950, was one of the best men on the field and narrowly missed scoring a touchdown in the second quarter when he blocked an attempted kick by Shepard.

The ball rolled into the Winnipeg end zone with Scott barreling after it. He pounced on the ball but it squirmed away and Jack Delveaux, Bomber fullback and linebacker and a late cut of New York Giants, fell on it to give Ticats the point.

Today's final marked the 32nd since the West first challenged for the cup in 1921. The East has won the trophy 23 times and the West nine. There were no Western challenges in six years.

It also was the sixth time that Winnipeg and Hamilton teams have met in the classic and they now are all square at 33. This game was billed as the rubber in three consecutive meetings in the Canadian final between the two clubs. Hamilton won the 1957 game here 32-7 and Bombers took the 1958 final at Vancouver 35-28.

BOMBERS SUPERIOR

Winnipeg had an advantage both in the air and on the ground, picking up 122 yards rushing and 94 yards passing to 48 rushing and 87 on passes by the Tiger-Cats.

With Faloney tossing the ball on all but two of Hamilton's 21 pass attempts — the others being handled by McDoig and punter Cam Fraser — Hamilton managed only nine completions.

Phoen, who had been expected to be overshadowed by Faloney in this department, completed three of 10 while Shepard, a halfback, clicked on the only pass he threw for a Winnipeg record of four for 11.

Shepard, who caught the Ticats several times with booming quick kicks, had a punting average of 45 yards compared with 40 for Fraser.

Winnipeg lost three of its four fumbles and Hamilton gave up the ball on all three of its fumbles.

Bad Year for Indians ---But Far From Starving

PORT ALBERNI — West Coast Indians who have had a bad year fishing are in need, but are far from starvation, West Coast Indian agencies supervisor N. W. Garrard said today.

There are about 200 Indian families within agency jurisdiction, extending from Port Renfrew to Kyuquot.

In the matter of the Estate of EDWIN CECIL COLLINS, Certificate of Title 221139-1 and Lot "A" Section 9, Range 2, East Plan 889, North Salt Spring Island, B.C.

"Ninety-nine per cent of these people are on relief, but they get enough to hold them over," Mr. Garrard said.

Those on relief provided by the federal government, receive an average of $50 a month for a family of four.

Reports that the Indians were starving, he said, "are exaggerated."

Because of poor fishing the past season, "things are a little tougher than ordinary."

Mr. Garrard said clothes being collected in Victoria would always come in useful for the Indians, but there was no real need in this direction either.

GOOD RESPONSE

Close to 1½ tons of donated clothing have been collected here since reports of the Indians' plight were received. No further clothing is needed.

Treasurer of the Indian Arts and Welfare Society, Lt. Col. Gilbert Howland, said public response has been good, and "we are sending 33 sacks of clothing soon."

The Indian situation was summed up at Ahousat by

Roy Sutherland of the Indian band there:

"I've no complaints. Sure, we haven't got much but if we're careful we will make out all right."

CLOTHING ONLY

Meanwhile Professor Charles Burchill, president of the Indian Arts Society, issued a statement here saying he was wrongly quoted earlier this week on the matter of food supplies for the Indians.

He said the reports received by the Indian Arts and Welfare Council dealt only with the need for warm clothing and had no suggestion of any food shortage, as was attributed to him.

Furthermore, he said he had not criticized federal Indian department relief payments since he did not know exactly what they were, but was sure they would be enough to cover the food requirements of the Indians.

The original report of starvation conditions among the Indians came from Alec Anderson, a Vancouver fisherman visiting Victoria, who had stopped at Ahousat.

Gerald Rafferty, three, of Chemainus, admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital Friday with a serious case of polio, was reported unchanged today.

However, despite his condition and the fact that he is in a respirator, hospital officials said he spent a "better" night.

He is Vancouver Island's 16th polio victim this year. Of that number eight are either discharged or out of danger, five are still in isolation, and three are dead.
